- June 8: first report draft (v0.1).
- June 22: admin check + day-count review.
- June 26: evaluation form deadline (lab supervisors).
- Slides: 15 minutes (aim 1 slide per minute).
- Report format: scientific paper in $\text{\LaTeX}$, $\geq 12\text{--}14$ double-column pages.

Next week schedule

Next week

- May 19: endoscopy; telework; 4h hospital stay; limited availability.
- Doctor asked: someone accompanies me for 24h after the endoscopy.
- May 20: telework; requesting it be counted as a day off.

Admin

- Request (Luc): please share my monthly day-count before submission so I can review.

Work plan (now → June)

- Start writing the final report now; lock structure early.
- Implement the changes we agreed last meeting while generating final figures.
- Maintain reproducible outputs to support report tables/plots.
- Build a 15-min defense deck in parallel once the report narrative stabilizes.

After the defense

- After July 3: continue internship normally at the lab.
- Paper/manuscript submission: discuss scope and timing after the defense.

Thanks — questions / suggestions welcome.

Questions for supervisors (if time)

Drafting & review

- Is June 8 a good target for the first structured draft (v0.1)?
- How often should I send drafts (e.g., weekly or at big milestones)?
- How many days should I expect to wait for comments (e.g., 2–5 days)?

Defense preparation

- Would you like to review the defense slides before July 3 (e.g., late June)?
